

David Brower

Professor Brower's teaching centers around human resources management, hospitality management, and tourism development. Specifically, he teaches courses such as human resources management, convention services management, hospitality management, destination development and marketing, and strategic marketing. His professional background includes numerous operations positions with top hospitality organizations such as Marriott International, Holiday Inn, and the Isle of Capri Casino, Inc. In addition, he has held leadership positions in the education foundation and membership services department with the Rhode Island Hospitality & Tourism Association, the largest not-for-profit trade association in the state of Rhode Island. Professor Brower received his M.B.A. in Hospitality Administration from the Alan Shawn Feinstein Graduate School at Johnson & Wales University and his B.B.A. and A.A.S. in Hospitality Management from SUNY Delhi.