JUDICIAL AFFAIRS PHILOSOPHY

Believing that an effective discipline system is one where all individuals should be treated with respect within the community they live or are a part of, the discipline system of WVWC Housing and Residence Life affirms the following ethical principles:

- ◆ Respect autonomy.
- ◆ Do no harm.
- ◆ Benefit others.
- ◆ Be just.
- ◆ Be faithful.

(Kitchener's Ethical Principles)

JUDICIAL AFFAIRS MISSION

As a component of the Housing and Residence Life Department, the discipline system strives to support the mission of the department and the greater missions of the college by:

- ◆ Disseminating, interpreting, and enforcing the code of conduct.
- ◆ Protecting relevant legal rights of students.
- ◆ Providing learning experiences for students who participate in the judicial process.
- ◆ Fostering ethical development and personal accountability of students.
- ◆ Helping to create a safe and secure campus.

JUDICIAL AFFAIRS LEARNING OUTCOMES

Although the judicial process is not often entered into willingly, there are many benefits that the students can gain. As administrators of the judicial process we must provide the challenge and support necessary for students to pursue the following outcomes.

- ◆ Examination of personal beliefs and values.
- ◆ Awareness and utilization of alternative conflict resolution skills.
- ◆ Willingness to accept responsibility for individual actions and the consequences of those actions.
- ◆ Understand the importance of civility as it relates to community.
