

Richard Golding

Professor Richard Golding's teaching centers around the Restaurant and Food Service and the Hotel and Resort Management disciplines. Specifically he teaches Hotel Banquet and Function Management, Commercial Kitchen Layout and Equipment, Human Resource Management and Professional Table Service in the Hospitality Industry. Professor Golding received his Bachelors Degree in Hotel and Restaurant Administration from Cornell University and is currently in the process of completing his Masters Degree in Labor and Policy Studies with emphasis in Human Resources from Empire State College. Professor Rick Golding has held several leadership positions with top hospitality organizations. He has held the position of Director of Restaurants at The Desmond Hotel in Albany, New York, the Shop Manager at Stewart's Shops in Albany, New York, the General Manager of Morton's of Chicago in Philadelphia, PA as well as the Director of Human Resources at the Wigwam Resort in Litchfield, Arizona. Professor Golding is the co-advisor of the Hotel Management Society Student Trade Organization.