

Donald Reynolds

Professor Reynolds' teaching centers around the Restaurant and Food Service discipline. Specifically, he teaches courses such as Basic Food Preparation and Standards, Food Production, Planning and Purchasing and Beverage and Beverage Control. Professor Reynolds' professional experiences have predominately been within the Health Care Food Service Management field. He has held the position of the Director of Food and Nutrition Services at Hartford Hospital in Hartford, CT., Newington Children's Hospital in Newington, CT., Rancocas Valley Hospital in Willingboro, NJ., and at Children's Hospital in Philadelphia, PA. He received his Associates Degree from SUNY Delhi, his Bachelors Degree in Food Administration from the Rochester Institute of Technology and his Masters Degree in Health Care Management from Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute. Professor Reynolds is the advisor for the International Food Service Executives Association Student Trade Organization.