What is it?

This community is for first-year veterinary science majors, with limited space for upperclassmen students, and comprises three floors in DuBois Hall. Students are enrolled in the popular, one-credit Freshman Seminar course, which provides an extended orientation and assists with adjustment to college life and campus. Research shows that living and participating in this learning environment leads to higher GPAs and a greater amount of credit hours earned.

Veterinary Science Peer Mentors

Peer role models hired to assist new students during their first year

- Second-year Vet Sci Students who have excelled academically
- Hold regular academic office hours for tutoring
- Host academic and social events geared towards Vet Sci Students

Peer Mentor Room

Located in DuBois Hall and open nightly with Peer Mentors, this room has animal models, textbooks, and other educational materials to help any Vet Sci Student excel.

"I really enjoyed residing in the living and learning environment. The quiet really helped me focus on my studies so I could do my best while at Delhi. I would recommend it to anyone."
